Schwartzhog: German for Booze

With a name like that, how could you not order this new-to-market German import? A handcrafted “krauter” liqueur (yes, that is the official term), it’s concocted with ginger, pomegranate, wormwood and a mystery herb called “hog root.” It’s currently rolling out across the US-this very evening, lucky gents in Massachusetts, Minnesota, Michigan and Texas can tell the bartender, “The lady and I would like to shoot a hog.”
